

The Anarchist Library
Anti-Copyright

Empyrean

Federico Arcos

Federico Arcos
Empyrean

sent by friend of author

theanarchistlibrary.org

In memory of Vincente Mari

Tho' the continents sink the Oceans dry up, or the rays of the Sun be extinguished, and the darkness permeates the Earth;

Tho' the poles compress and meet at the equator, or the Planet be pulverized, vanishing in the Ether.

Tho' the Universe lose its rhythm the Worlds shatter and everything disintegrates in the Infinite.

Tho' Eternity be today;
today, a minute;
the minute and instant,
and the Instant Nothing.

Tho' everything be lost, that nothing remains Nothing and the Cosmic vacuum be without end or boundary;

There always will be a flame perhaps minuscule, but visible, which will show us, as a perennial guide, the way of Hope.